Calf Club Notes.

This will be a short but interesting season. With everyone's co-operation we can make the short season left the most interesting one yet. Listen to some ideas:

1. Day at Calgary Stampede for the whole club.
2. Club Field Day & Picnic.
3. Shall we meet every 2 weeks?
4. Shall we have our Club Fair with the District Fair this season?

Unless we can get THIRTY live members this won't be possible—so let's all turn out NEXT MONDAY NIGHT at 8 in the Public School basement. Prize money will be given out then and the draw for the Ayrshire bull-calf will take place.

Praetorius, D.D., of St. Paul, Minn., in charge of the northwestern area, will preside. Bishop Praetorius before being elevated to the episcopacy was for many years General Secretary of Christian Education.

"Pressing Toward the Goal," is the title of the sermon for next Sunday morning. In the evening the pastor will bring the 6th in the series Pictures of Jesus—"The Furnace."

Next Sunday marks the beginning of a new Conference Year. Let us begin right by being in church at both services.

The Annual Congregational Meeting will be held this Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the church to elect officers and to receive the annual reports.

Thanks.

The Nurses and the Didsbury Hospital Board wish to thank Mrs. Dr. Clarke and Mr. Chas. Mortimer for supplying a large number of perennial plants to help beautify the grounds. Also thanks to Mr. Mortimer for planting same.

Town Council.

Petition Presented for Saturday Night Closing By-Law.

A delegation of business men attended the council meeting on Monday night when a petition was presented asking the council to pass a by-law "requiring stores and business houses to close at 10 p.m. on Saturday evenings."

Another petition was presented by seven business men asking that their names be taken from the petition that they had already signed.

After some discussion the council decided that in view of the conflicting petition a meeting of the business men affected should be called for Friday evening to discuss the matter. It was pointed out that in any event it would take eight weeks before the by-law could be put into effect.

The Public Works Committee presented a proposal of the work to be done during the season.

The plan submitted included rebuilding of the sidewalk along the highway in Lacknerville; rebuilding a portion of sidewalk at the east end of Liekester Street; graveling the street in front of the school; grading and graveling the south end of Shantz Ave and Hammond St. and grading the two streets in Lacknerville south from highway.

Mr. W. Smith made an application to purchase two lots east of the Anglican Church. The council decided to sell the property to Mr. Smith on condition that he erect a residence thereon.

It was decided that two delegates be sent to attend the Convention of Alberta Municipalities to be held in Lethbridge on June 11 and 12.

It was pointed out that at the next meeting, on June 15, a court of revision would be held regarding the assessment.

Hospital Fees Reduced.

A committee of Didsbury Hospital Board met with the Olds Hospital Board on Saturday evening and an agreement was made whereby the hospital fees would be reduced at both Didsbury and Olds Hospitals.

The fees for patients living in contributing municipalities are reduced from $3.00 per day to $2.50, and the fees for patients living outside the districts would be reduced from $4.00 per day to $3.00.

Fees for operating room, case room, etc., will remain as heretofore. There will be a discount of 5 per cent allowed if the fees are paid within 30 days after the patient leaves the hospital.

Didsbury Will Have Agricultural Fair

Didsbury will have an Agricultural Fair this year it was decided at the meeting of directors of the Didsbury Agricultural Society held on Tuesday afternoon. The tentative date was set at Wednesday, July 29, but the date cannot finally be set until the secretary has communicated with the Dept. of Agriculture at Edmonton.

A letter was read from Mr. August Fisher, who has moved to Calgary, tendering his resignation as president. His place will be taken by Mr. Harold Brennan. Mr. J. V. Berscht was again appointed manager of the fair and C. E. Reiber secretary.

A grant of approximately $200.00 is available from the provincial government and the town and municipalities will be asked for grants.

It is thought that prizes can be given for exhibits, and a schedule of prizes will be set, but the payment of prize money will be on a pro rata basis on receipts of the fair.

Didsbury has always had successful fairs and it was indicated at the meeting that the showing of livestock will be fully up to previous standards.

"Y" Girls Honor Miss E. Hunsperger

About 35 members of the Young People's Branch of the W.C.T.U., along with friends, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hunsperger on Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Enith Hunsperger, who is leaving for Edmonton soon. The surprise was in the form of a handkerchief shower. The girls will greatly miss their leader, who has been such a faithful president for three years and has helped them in so many ways. We wish her success in her new position.

Facing a Big Deficit

The discovery that the operations of the Federal government for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936, resulted in a deficit of approximately $162,000,000, as announced by Hon. Chas. A. Dunning in the recent budget speech in the House of Commons must have come as a considerable shock to a large percentage of the Canadian people who must pay the piper.

The shock is not assuaged at all by the additional announcement that the increase in the sales tax from six to eight per cent. which the government decided to levy will not be a heavy enough impost to enable the government to balance the budget for the current fiscal year and that, on the other hand, the best that can be expected from this and other more minor levies is a deficit of something less than $100,000,000 for this year.

Not much is to be gained by any attempt to lay the blame for this enormous deficit at the door of any particular administration. Doubtless politicians within the fold of the two major political parties will rise up and assert that the other party is at fault, in the one case the former regime and in the other the present administration, while adherents of other parties, who have not yet been given an opportunity to demonstrate their ability to govern the country, will declare that the economic system is to be blamed.

The fact remains that there is a shortage of $162,000,000 as the difference between governmental income and outgo which has to be made up by approximately 10,000,000 people and the same number of people are apparently likely to have to make up another $100,000,000 or a little less next year. The money must come out of the pockets of these ten million Canadians and apparently the only way to get it is by increasing taxation in some form or another.

The government has decided that the loss is to be made up partially by an additional levy of two per cent. in the form of sales tax, which means by the extraction of another two cents on every dollar spent by the consumers on practically "everything manufactured and produced in Canada." Hon. Mr. Dunning stated that by this means the government is placing the burden on "rich and poor alike." Whether it will work out that way in actual practice, it is almost impossible to say at this stage, whatever the intention may be.

It is axiomatic that in the final analysis the consumer must and does foot the country's tax bill, and it is a matter of history that sometimes business not only collects the tax from the consumer but a little bit more by adding a small profit on the tax as well as on the cost of the goods and the cost of their distribution. In this way a tax sometimes becomes pyramided by the time the goods on which they are levied reach the consumer.

The present system of collection makes this kind of thing possible and it is to be hoped that the government will take such measures as are necessary to see that the consumer is not forced to pay an additional tribute to retailers, jobbers, wholesalers and manufacturers, or any of them as a result of the increase in the sales tax.

For any government, of course, a sales tax or an increase in sales tax, is one of the easiest ways of securing revenue from its subjects. Within a couple of months people will have forgotten about the budget and that they are paying another two per cent. towards governmental administration on practically everything they buy, because it is a hidden impost.

In this connection there would seem to be some merit in the sales tax system in vogue in the State of Oklahoma where the tax is collected by the retailer and where the retailer is required to show on his bill to the customer the price of the article and the amount collected in tax as a separate item.

This system, while unquestionably irksome and cumbersome to the retailer, at least has the advantage of making the consumer "tax conscious" in the same way as has a direct income tax. Every time he makes a purchase from a nickel upward he is made to realize that he is making a contribution to the government and the amount he is contributing. If this system were in effect throughout Canada, no doubt it would result in greater pressure being brought to bear on the government to economize and might act as a deterrent in the number of requests made to the government for expenditures which might be avoided.

There are, on the other hand, some very potent arguments against the adoption of such a system of tax levy and collection. It would often result, no doubt, in efforts on the part of consumers to induce the retailers to absorb the tax and where competition is keen might result in injustice to the merchants. In addition to which, the time that this method of billing and collection would require, would no doubt, entail extra cost to the merchant which, under present conditions, he could ill afford.

Uniforms For Air Force

Are Shown In Issue Of Canadian Airway Bulletin

Foretaste of what is to come when the Canadian air mail is resumed in 1937, as current plans call for, is given in the latest issue of "The Bulletin," published by Canadian Airways, Ltd.

It shows a photograph of two officers of the company dressed in the natty blue uniforms of Canadian Airways, complete to peaked caps, with the familiar Canada Goose emblem of the company. These uniforms, it is explained, will be worn by all pilots and co-pilots on airmail runs. The first of these are worn by pilots on the Vancouver-Seattle service. The 'planes there have also just been fitted with complete two-way radio equipment.

Temple To The Sun

Building In England To Have 7,500 Feet Of Gardens

A temple to the sun with 7,500 square feet of hanging gardens is rising in England in the midst of one of South Hackney's most populous districts.

It is an experiment by the Bethnal Green and East London Housing Association in which housing experts, builders and architects have worked together to evolve the "sun and air home" of the future.

"We were faced with the problem of making the flats as much like houses as possible," said the architect, J. E. M. Macgregor, "and so we provided each flat with its own private garden on the same level."

The first section of the "sun temple", containing 16 flats, each with a minimum of 200 square feet of hanging garden open to the sky, will be completed in the near future.

Even on a dark day the building, with its yellow brick walls and red tile roof, suggests sunshine.

To make the gardens possible a new kind of building of pyramid shape was devised, the flats being built in receding steps around a covered hall. This hall will be let as a market.

It is one of the first buildings in the world to be built on the cantilever system.

The local church of Hampton Wick, England, serves boiled eggs, butter, rolls, marmalade, and tea free to all who attend Sunday morning services. The vicar originated the idea and foots the bill. 2150

Must Lower Trade Barriers

Revival Of World Trade Necessary To Halt Economic Distress

Declaring there is a "rising danger" of a catastrophic world war, U.S. Secretary Hull at Washington, attacked what he termed the "supreme folly" of "excessive" trade barriers.

A revival of world trade through a lowering of such barriers is necessary to halt the "virulent disease" of economic distress, social unrest, dictatorships and war, Hull declared in a speech prepared for delivery to the closing session of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

"Only as the world's economic health is restored will individuals and nations develop again adequate resistance to the psychological madness that makes possible internal and external strife," the secretary of state said.

Describing the new reciprocal trade policy, Hull said that if it were scrapped, the United States would take a "fatal" step backward.

Weather Expert Retires

F. Napier Denison Relinquishes Post At Victoria

F. Napier Denison, who studied the earth's phenomena from Gonzales Hill observatory for 48 years, has retired from his post as superintendent of the Dominion government meteorological bureau at Victoria.

As he left his office in the dome-shaped Gonzales observatory, relinquishing his position of close to half a century to W. A. Thorn of Toronto, Mr. Denison said he was not through with scientific research.

During the years he has been in the government's meteorological service, Mr. Denison has been interested chiefly in tracing the world's earth tremors. He is known well across the Dominion and on the Pacific coast as an expert weather observer.

Divided By Chalk Line

Brothers Lived In Room Like Hermits For 62 Years

Death has separated two brothers, whose hermit-like existence in the hills in New York State had been divided by a chalk-line for 62 years. George Washington Coleman, 79, said he would "carry on" in the little cabin of Bakers Gulch where James Philatus Coleman, 81, died of pneumonia.

For more than half a century the two brothers had lived in the little cabin as veritable strangers, a chalk-line through the centre of their one-room marking the boundary of their individual domains.

French Liner Once As Famous As New Queen Mary

Less than 24 hours after the Queen Mary had made her triumphant passage down the Clyde another great ship was dragged ignominiously up the channel, stern first, to end her days in the shipbreakers' yard. She was the 42,000-ton liner l'Atlantique which was once to the French just what the Queen Mary is to the British people to-day, and which was burned in the English Channel several years ago. Over 100 men will be engaged for about a year on breaking her up.

Combatting Insects Which Ultimately Would Ruin Our Agricultural Life

Canada's national collection of insects is an important factor in "Systematic Entomology." This statement may evoke the question—What is systematic entomology and what has it to do with Canada? Everybody knows that entomology is the department of science dealing with the study of insects as a whole. Fewer people may know that Economic Entomology comprises the practical work in combating insects which ultimately would ruin the economic welfare of the Dominion, and still fewer are aware that Systematic Entomology is the basis or foundation of all entomology, supplying as it does among other things the discriminations necessary upon which to combat insect havoc on food, clothing, farm crops, forests, and plants.

In Canada alone there are more than 50,000 known species of insects native to the country. Of that number, 3,000 are classified as destructive enemies. In addition to these 3,000 enemies, there are immigrants which have come to stay, such as the European corn borer, the Hessian fly, the European spruce sawfly, and the Colorado potato beetle, to name but a few. Every year the material and financial loss in Canada, as in other parts of the world, is enormous, while all the time the Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, is waging incessant warfare against the insect menace to reduce the economic loss to a minimum.

Systematic Entomology, in providing the material for entomological energy, embraces the classification of insects, the study of their structure, their habits and their whole life cycle, and the building up of a national collection of specimens. It is work that demands a very high standard of scientific knowledge and infinite patience, a particularly essential requisite if a scientist or research worker hopes to attain even a modicum of success. Dr. J. H. McDunnough is the chief of Systematic Entomology, and the national collection of insects in the Entomological Branch is largely the result of his efforts in the past 17 years. The collection may rightly be regarded as among the country's most valuable assets, not altogether from a monetary viewpoint, although its value in money would amount to many thousands of dollars, but as a source of scientific reference for the research worker and the more practical economic entomologist.

The entire collection totals hundreds of thousands of specimens. There are more than 3,000 drawers of pinned insect material, microscopic slide preparations of minute insects and dissections, and thousands of specimens preserved in alcohol. Each specimen is carefully tabulated and all known information about it is recorded. Day in day out, some contribution or addition is made to the collection, and some new information is compiled for the benefit of the Canadian entomological army in the field, and for other scientists.

Restricted As Health Measure

Budget Controls Import Of Used Mattresses For Resale

Importation to Canada of waste material used in the manufacture of mattresses and of used mattresses will be restricted as a health measure under budget provisions disclosed by Finance Minister Dunning.

It has been the custom to bring in from the United States mattress waste used in manufacture of new mattresses. Now this material may not be imported unless accompanied by a certificate of fumigation and cleaning.

Used magazines and periodicals may be brought in as gifts or as waste material, but not for resale as magazines.

Thousands Of Years Old

Chinese Emperor Had Hemp Cultivated In 2800 B.C.

Hemp flashed into the pages of history more than 5,000 years ago, and for centuries was the king of fibres. To-day, cheaper fibres are competing with hemp in the cordage factory.

Hemp sails dropped out of sight with the manufacture of cotton sails and the development of marine engines; hemp rope met a bitter rival that unseated it when mariners discovered that abaca fibre, which is called Manila "hemp", was cheaper, would float, and did not require the application of tar; hemp cotton-bale wrapping bowed to Indian jute and waste cotton; and 20 years ago carpet manufacturers substituted cotton and jute warping for hemp.

Hemp is a cousin of the mulberry tree and a native of Asia. Since 2800 B.C., when a Chinese Emperor taught his subjects to cultivate hemp and to make hemp cloth for clothing, hemp has frequently appeared in historic records. The Chinese also ate the seeds and extracted an oil from the plant.

Hemp followed civilization westward. Before the Christian era the Indians, Arabians and Persians were cultivating hemp for drugs, which they learned to extract from the plant. The Scythians took hemp with them to Europe 3,500 years ago. Hemp's drugs attracted North Africans to the plant and the strength of its fibre—hemp is the strongest of all fibres—brought it into wide use on the sailing vessels of the Mediterranean.

Hemp invaded the Western Hemisphere in 1545 when some seeds from Spain reached Chile. North America began to cultivate hemp shortly after the Puritans settled in Massachusetts, but the southern colonies were more successful with their plantations. Laws promoting the hemp industry were passed by the early legislatures of colonial Virginia. Lancaster, Pennsylvania, was the centre of a large hemp-producing region during the Revolution.

Vanish From Circulation

Silver Dollars Bearing Portrait Of King George Are Scarce

First supplies of 1936 Canadian silver dollars which recently reached Edmonton banks have been absorbed by collectors, officials report. Like the Silver Jubilee dollar of last year, it is believed the new money will be kept as souvenirs and very little will be in circulation.

The new money is being sought by collectors in the belief it will be the last issue bearing the portrait of King George V. The 1937 issue is expected to mark King Edward VIII's coronation.

The 1936 coin bears a new portrait of the late king, and was designed just prior to his death.

Open to all residents of Saskatchewan, the campaign to effect the extinction of crows and magpies, sponsored by the provincial department of Natural Resources, commenced on May 1. Certain crows and magpies have been caught, banded and freed in various sections of Saskatchewan. Numbers have been selected and cash awards of $1 to $500 will be paid the persons who deliver to Game Commissioner, Regina, the bands bearing the lucky numbers. Rules and information concerning the campaign may be had from the Department of Natural Resources.

Have Difficult Job

Business Men Put In Good Word For Politicians

The following article is by J. M. Macdonald, a business man, in Canadian Business, Montreal:

"We are apt from time to time to speak impatiently about politicians and we sometimes rather fancy that we are better men than they are. Business men, however, have not been prepared to take as much trouble as politicians to do something themselves in the public service. Politicians have a much more difficult job than business men. Public men have got a lot of fellows on the watch, every time they make a wrong decision, to put it in the front pages of the newspapers. It is not an easy job and if we want to get things done by public men we should remember their difficulties and that they are just as anxious to get the right thing done as we are. . . . Business men are apt to be critically minded towards what we call the academic frame of mind, and they are apt to be just as critical of business. It is highly undesirable that that state of affairs should go on. I am sure they need us and I am equally sure we need them, and we should be prepared to believe that there is a great deal for us to learn from them and hope that they might find out also that there is something to learn from us. A necessary condition for co-operating with university men is to give them the same line of freedom in their business that we want to have in ours."

Need Wider Markets

Says Economic Relations Of The World Due For A Re-Orientation

Long agony of low prices and closed markets should come to an end, stated R. C. Matthews, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting in Washington.

The minister of national revenue in the Bennett administration stated that in economic relations the world was due for a re-orientation. Nations must learn afresh to seek business, to find markets and to admit the products of other countries.

Debtor countries must have the opportunity to sell to their creditors, he said, if they were to be able to discharge the interest on their funded obligations and creditor nations must learn to recognize that fact.

It was true, and should be admitted, that some countries felt compelled by economic conditions to resort to greater measures of protection to provide against undue internal economic disturbances by the dumping of foreign goods upon their markets.

"If, however, these countries are to progress, an expansion of their foreign trade, both export and import is essential," he added.

Life insurance written and paid for in cash in Canada during 1935 amounted to $588,348,611.

Son Of Scottish Manse

Lord Tweedsmuir Proud Of Being Elder In Church

The other day an Ottawa news despatch informed us that the Governor-General of Canada went down to Knox Church and spoke at the annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. In opening his remarks he said, "As an elder of the Church of Scotland and a son of a Scottish manse, I am glad to be among my fellow Presbyterians." In commenting upon these words the Ottawa Journal expresses hope that they will be read by some young Canadians and by other Canadians with whom it is the fashion these days to adopt a patronizing attitude towards church members and religious workers. "John Buchan, novelist, author, historian, scholar, standing in Knox Presbyterian Church, professing his faith openly and his pride in being an elder, should be a corrective of such thought. It should tell some few of us at least how superficial such thought is, how compounded of pride and ignorance and things equally unlovely. Tell that there is no conflict between scholarship and the highest standards of success and the practical or even humble work of religion." The truth is that the best features of civilization are based upon the Christian religion. Those who neglect this paramount truth have either not read history with any understanding or they are deliberately "kicking against the pricks," to use a phrase employed nearly nineteen hundred years ago by one of the apostles.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Trans-Canada Highway

No Expectations Now Of Completing The Road This Year

A passable trans-Canada highway could be completed by the fall of 1938 at a cost of approximately $10,000,000 to the federal government, Labor Minister Rogers told the House of Commons.

The house approved a vote of $3,527,125 for trans-Canada highway work in the present year. There is no thought of completing the road this year.

According to an engineer's report, said the minister, completing the Ontario section of the highway on a 50-50 basis with the provincial government would cost the Dominion $8,390,650.

Canada's export of nickel in February had a value of $4,120,000 compared with $2,705,000 in February last year.

Important changes in policy, approved by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, respecting the water conservation work organized last year under the Dominion Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act have just been announced by J. Vallance, senior rehabilitation officer, whose headquarters are in Regina, Sask. The announcement, including a revised basis for engineering and financial assistance for the building of stockwatering dams and small irrigation works, outlines a reorganized setup providing for the establishment of provincial committees for Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba in place of the Water Development Committee formerly under L. B. Thomson, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Sask., and for the transfer of all engineering work in connection with the smaller projects directly to the provinces but financed under the Dominion Act and supervised by the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

This change makes all engineering work in connection with small projects, including stockwatering dams and private irrigation schemes, a direct responsibility of the provincial officers entrusted with the administration of water rights. Previously this phase of the work was directly under the committee.

The engineering staff required for the investigation, survey and construction of community projects, for which tenders are let, is not being decentralized but will continue as part of the central organization at Regina.

Community projects now under construction or for which contracts have been authorized include the Val Marie irrigation project, the Eastend irrigation project, Middle Creek and Adams Lake storage dams, and the Wascana reclamation project, all in Saskatchewan. Community works under construction in Alberta include the Wild Horse storage dam and certain repair work in connection with the Canada Land and Irrigation Company near Vauxhall. No new community projects are under construction in Manitoba though some six community dams were built in that province last year, including a dam near Souris, one at Crystal City and four in the municipality of Edward.

New community projects under investigation include the Estevan flood irrigation scheme involving about 3500 acres, the community dam on Wood River near Coderre, Saskatchewan, and a number of community projects in Alberta, including the Leavitt irrigation scheme, Pot Hole Creek project, Berry Creek, and the Milk River diversion near Warner.

The personnel of the water development committees for each of the three provinces includes: J. Vallance, chairman; B. Russell, senior engineer; W. L. Jacobson, secretary; and the provincial officer charged with the responsibility of water rights administration within the province, namely L. C. Charlesworth in Alberta, C. J. McGavin in Saskatchewan, and C. H. Attwood in Manitoba. The main function of the provincial committees will be to consider applications received and to assist in co-ordinating the work between the Dominion and Provincial officers.

A staff of agricultural representatives will be attached to the central office for the Dominion Department of Agriculture in Regina for the purpose of investigating the agricultural features of applications submitted and these representatives are to work in close co-operation with the district engineers of the provinces.

Canada's Silk Industry

For eighteen years the silk industry of Canada has shown almost unbroken progress. It passed through the worldwide trade recession with a record of increased production every year. A small industry at the close of the war, to-day it is one of the five largest branches of the textile group in Canada.

Prairie Provinces

The quinquennial census of the three Prairie Provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, began on Monday, June 1. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics points out that it is specially important at the present time that a complete and accurate inventory be obtained.

There are twelve inquiries which deal with the occupation, industry, the industrial status, unemployment, employment of the gainfully occupied population. It is hoped that every question will be answered fully and it should be noted that there need be no fear that information given will be available to anyone. The utmost secrecy is preserved and in no circumstances will any information supplied by individuals be used as a basis for taxation or for any other purpose. All officials and clerks are bound by an oath of secrecy.

In addition to the questions dealing with occupation, industry and status, certain inquiries relating to unemployment, employment and earnings will be addressed to all persons reported as wage or salaried workers. Persons not at work on June 1 will further report the reason and the number of weeks since last employed. Those with jobs will be asked whether employed on full or part time basis or on relief work and the number of weeks employed during the last twelve months. Every wage earner will be expected to state the total amount of his earnings during the last twelve months.

Not only will the census give a comprehensive picture of the occupational scene on June 1 but it will describe its more permanent features as well. The census will tell for every community what its working members were doing on June 1 and also what they usually do. Such information is useful in formulating a policy of re-employment and placing.

Much interest and concern exists today as to the number of unemployed in the country, distinct from those in receipt of relief. Unemployment in depressed industries as well as in the various grades of occupation will be fully understood from the facts gathered at the census. The light the census will throw on the duration of employment in the Prairie Provinces as well as the extent of part time employment will be very useful in framing remedial measures to meet the situation.

It is recognized today that young people represent a special problem. It is proposed to record them separately from the unemployed who have followed an occupation at some time prior to the census and to find out how many have been trained to fill a number of clerical, technical and professional occupations.

Statistics of earnings are in increasing demand. The knowledge will be useful in gauging the relative need of different economic groups and for setting up uniform wage standards in each province or in specific localities within each province.

It's Down Again!

Hi! neighbor, did you hear the news that's going round the town? The market took a slump to-day and butter-fat is down. There's none the motive can explain, we're all so dumb and dense: It's happened just the same, bigosh, and cream is off two cents!

Our merchants soon the truth will learn, their stocks they'll re-arrange. And in the line-up on their shelves you'll note a drastic change. Instead of silks and laces, now they'll sell 'em calico; And cotton bloomers in the place of rayon panties, too.

The churches too will feel the pinch as sure as cats are born, And I've a hunch that in the plate this coming Sabbath morn No welcome quarters clatter, there'll be nickels, dimes and pence. Oh Lordy, what a difference since cream slid off two cents!

There's nary one that suffers not when thro' this bloomin' town The dismal fact is spread abroad that "fat" is tumbling down. And not a woman, man nor child but knows what's bound to come. When the farmer takes a wage-cut and the world goes on the bum

"Quit harping for that coat, my dear and sure that hat will do. Another year, remember what hard times we're coming to; And Sis, forget that frock as well, come, come, now don't be vain! Go easy on the butter, Bud. 'cause cream is down again!"

Let other nations wrestle with their treasies, trades and wars; Afflictions, grievous too, have we, though strangers to old Mars. And tho' from violence we shrink, the feeling grows intense; And say, DO we just yelp and cuss when cream slips down two cents!

TREASURE HUNTERS . . . When prospectors and miners took to the air, mining in Northern Canada began its greatest development. A-1 pilots, dependable aircraft and quality gasoline and oils make northern flying safe. (90 out of every 100 miles flown in Canada are travelled with Imperial Oil products).

HIGHWAY BEACONS . . . Wherever you drive you will see the 3-Star Imperial Sign. If it could speak it would say to you, "I mark a place where everything will be done to serve you well." If you need tires or batteries the Atlas Brand will save you money.

FARMING IN A BIG WAY . . . Farmers like Imperial Oil products. One Alberta farmer, who for years has used only Marvelube Oil in his tractor, decided that the eight-year-old machine would need new pistons and cylinder sleeves, but when the machine was taken down it needed only new piston rings. "I honestly think your Marvelube has had a great deal to do with the life and performance of this tractor," he wrote.

Arrangements are now being completed to broadcast throughout the Dominion the official unveiling ceremony of Canada's war memorial at Vimy Ridge, France, scheduled to take place Sunday afternoon, July 26. The ceremony is likely to take about an hour and will be received here in Canada around 9 o'clock in the morning.

The Federal government will expend $240,000.00 this year on improvements to Jasper Park and continuing construction of the Jasper end of the scenic highway to Banff, it is stated by J. A. McKinnon, M.P. for West Edmonton. In addition, $110,000 will be spent on the Banff end of the highway.

Abraham Albert Heaps, English-born Jew, appealed in the House of Commons last Tuesday for fair play for Scotsmen. He said representations had been made to him by Scottish-Canadians that they had to pay a relatively high duty for kilts imported from the land of their ancestors and he thought it was most unfair.

Queens of babydom, the Dionne Quintuplets, primed up for their second birthday celebration last Thursday with the world at their feet and money, plenty of it, in the bank. Their amazing majesties, the world's most famous babies and among its healthiest, were worth an estimated $250,000 as preparations to mark the second anniversary of their birth neared completion.

Exports of Canadian wheat to Great Britain during the first three months of 1936, namely 11,604,111 cwt., showed an increase of nearly 70 per cent over the quantity shipped in the corresponding months of 1935. During the same period Canadian flour exported to Britain advanced from 883,084 cwt. in 1935 to 944,445 cwt., and the sales of Canadian lard on the British market were more than trebled, according to British statistics.

Westcott Notes.

Westcott W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Harry Steckley on May 28, with twelve members and four visitors present. The meeting opened with "O Canada" and repetition of the Creed. Roll call was answered by giving a "current event." The short course is to be held in Westcott School on Saturday afternoon, June 13 and all ladies are cordially invited. Mrs. Harry Steckley was elected delegate to the constituency conference being held in Didsbury on Wednesday, June 3, and Mrs. Bob Macfarlane was elected delegate to the annual Farm Women's Week to be held at Olds in July. Miss Ruth Johnston, of the Didsbury Hospital, gave three lessons on "Nursing in the Home," which were afterwards thoroughly discussed. Miss Johnston answered many questions and received the thanks of the members for her valuable advice. The meeting joined in a sing song of old songs, while the four visitors acted as judges in the ginger cookie contest, 1st prize going to Mrs. Ed. Klinck and 2nd to Mrs. Harry Levagood. "God Save the King" was sung and lunch was served by the hostess. The June meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Levagood.

A financial statement of expenses and monies received in connection with the recently held Musical Festival at Olds, was handed to us Tuesday for perusal. The books, however, are open for inspection to anyone interested at the office of the secretary, Mr. Stan. Edwards. After perusing the interesting statement we find that the sum of thirty four cents can be placed in the sinking fund, to give the festival a send-off for next year.

Expenses include printing programs, entry forms, advertising, certificates of merit, and miscellaneous such as cartage, milk, cream and coffee, etc.—OLDS GAZETTE

AT CARSTAIRS: Mr. Jim Lewis has been appointed postmaster for Carstairs, which fills the vacancy caused by the death of former postmaster Joe King.

AT OLDS: Following a gasoline truck fire which occurred about 7 miles south on the highway last fall, the 2,000 gallon tank became the property of Meek Bros. After salvaging the wreckage the tank was placed in a field where it was thought it would be safe until needed. The brothers took sufficient equipment to haul the tank to their place last week, but upon their arrival at the field found the tank gone. The local police are investigating the mysterious disappearance of the heavy gasoline container.

SOCIAL CREDIT NOTES.

Didsbury S.C. Group No. 1 held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Cummins on Monday evening. Correspondence from the Premier, Hon. E. C. Manning and E. P. Foster, M.L.A., was read. Several important topics were discussed and a letter was forwarded to the King's Printer at Edmonton requesting a copy of the constitution regarding the groups and constituencies and a copy of "Synopsis of Statutes of General Application in 1936 Session." Lunch was served and lively conversation enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at the home of A. Schwesinger on June 15. Everyone welcome.

Didsbury Pioneer S.C. Group had a well attended meeting on Monday evening at Chris Rapien's home. Reports were read on the progress of the provincial government and the work of S.C. members in the federal government. The speaker pointed out that the Social Credit government was saving the people of Alberta $8,000 per day from June 1st on, by refunding Provincial Bond indebtedness at 2 1/2% interest. After business was disposed of a delightful lunch was served by the social committee. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chris Mack on Mon., June 8 at 8 p.m.

Starts Flying School

Irishman Believed To Be World's Only One-Legged Instructor

One-legged J. J. "Paddy" Flynn, black-haired, blue-eyed Irishman, has just booked his first pupils in his own flying school in Doncaster.

When Imperial Airways City of Washington crashed near Neuchatel, France, in 1930 four people were killed. "Paddy", her pilot, lived. But he fractured his spine and skull; lost one leg, broke the other in four places; smashed his ribs; spent the next two years in the hospital, had nine operations.

Now the Irish air ministry has given him special permission to give flying instruction in his own school.

He believes he is the only one-legged licensed instructor in the world.

Before the City of Washington crashed, "Paddy" had carried 31,000 passengers, flown at least half a million miles. When he recovered Imperial Airways gave him a job in their accounts department.

But the little man with the cheery grin, who stumped around with a tin leg and a rubber-shod stick, could not stand that.

He had an aeroplane specially fitted for him and got back his "A" private flier's license.

He has now five "school" machines of his own.

An R.A.F. officer in the war, he fought the Richthofen squadron of "blood red" scouts. Then he went home to Ireland to fight against the English.

When the English left, "Paddy" founded the Free State air force with war-time Bristol fighters and D.H.9's to fight the Republicans. He and his men carried homemade bombs aloft in beer bottle baskets and slung them overboard.

Reduced Railway Fares

Low Excursion Rates Both East And West Are Offered

Every inducement to travel this summer in Canada's famous holiday centres both east and west is suggested in the excursion fares announced by the Canadian Passenger Association through its western secretary, Joseph B. Parker. Summer fares on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways offer unusual advantages in economy on the part of the traveller and in length of time allowed on the special rail tickets provided for.

Three kinds of tickets, first class, tourist and coach classes from western Canada to points in the east will be on sale from June 1 to August 31 and will bear a final return limit of September 30. In addition to this, special fares for return limit of October 31 will be offered from May 15.

To Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster from the prairie provinces, giving opportunity for travel through some of Canada's most romantic scenery, low summer tourist fares are to be in effect from June 1. This will bear a time limit up to September 30 and will provide a choice of travel in coach, tourist and first class accommodation. Tickets with still longer limit will be effective from May 15.

Added to these will be summer fares in effect from western Canadian points to the great mountain resorts along both railways in Alberta and British Columbia.

Vimy Ridge Memorial

Canada's national memorial on Vimy Ridge will cost in the neighborhood of $1,290,000, Defence Minister Mackenzie told T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto-Broadview) in the House of Commons. This covers cost of construction, together with building of roads, the preparation and laying out of the grounds incidental to the undertaking.

First Saskatchewan Mounted Rifles At Lloydminster Awarded Trophy

The Department of National Defence announced the First Saskatchewan Mounted Rifles with headquarters at Lloydminster, Sask., won the White challenge cup for 1935, with a score of 387 marks.

The cup was donated by Brig.-Gen. J. B. White for the general efficiency competition in connection with the non-permanent active militia cavalry units in Canada.

Other regiments with headquarters and marks obtained include: 14th Canadian Light Horse, Climax, Sask., 374; 16th Canadian Light Horse, Yorkton, Sask., 370; Fort Garry Horse, Winnipeg, 356; 15th Canadian Light Horse, Calgary, Alta., 344; 19th Alberta Dragoons, Edmonton, 339; Alberta Mounted Rifles, Vegreville, Alta., 339; British Columbia Dragoons, Vernon, B.C., 366; British Columbia Hussars, Kamloops, B.C., 320; South Alberta Horse, Pincher Creek, Alta., 305.

According To Height

Fares in Vienna street cars are paid according to height. Whereas in most European cities ten years is the dividing line between half and full fares, there 130 centimeters, or four feet four inches, marks the half-fare limit. Standing more than that means that the passenger is grown up. In cases of dispute the conductor refers to a yard stick carved into the door frame.

Musical Future For West

Sir Ernest MacMillan Greatly Impressed By Growing Interest

Western Canada is on the threshold of unprecedented musical development, said Sir Ernest MacMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, who is on an extended tour of the west.

"The growth of interest in music has nowhere been more marked in recent years than in the western provinces," said Sir Ernest. "I have been greatly impressed by the keenness of those engaged in musical activity and by their eagerness to extend their knowledge and capacities in every direction."

During his tour, Sir Ernest will visit Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and Saskatoon to meet music teachers and discuss with them questions of teaching, examination work and the new syllabus of the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

In each city he will visit, Sir Ernest plans to address Canadian Clubs and other organizations on music and its relation to Canadian life.

Anglican Fund Restored

Amount Originally Lost in Western Canada Has Been Made Up

Ottawa.—All the funds originally lost in western Canada in 1933 had now been restored, according to a report of the restoration fund committee to the Anglican synod of the Ottawa diocese.

The original loss of endowment funds, on which depended much missionary work in western and northern dioceses, the pensions of aged clergymen, widows and orphans, and the work of St. John's college, Winnipeg, was approximately $760,000. When the restoration fund campaign was launched, $300,000 was added to the sum appealed for to augment the general synod pension fund.

Does Not Like Sailing

But Queen Mary Always Visits Cowes In Yachting Week

Queen Mary has arranged to visit Cowes during the yachting week in August. She will stay in the Royal yacht with the King. For many years Cowes week provided King George and Queen Mary with their only real holiday. Yet she has never gone sailing while there, for she dislikes it. Most of her time is spent in motoring about the Isle of Wight, calling on old friends there and visiting antique shops.

YOUR GARDEN

Much of the real interest in gardening lies in trying something new. Of course it is not advisable to make over the whole garden each spring, nor should one abandon completely all those old favourites which have done well in the past, but without something entirely new each season interest will be lost. In a special part of every seed catalogue will be listed the very latest creations in both flowers and vegetables. Certain flowers which were always double before now appear in a single type, or perhaps a new distinct color has been added. Giants have been dwarfed, like the new tiny Zinnias, or very much increased in height, added to something which a few years ago could only be secured in midget size. Practically all the leading flowers may now be secured in both doubles and singles and some of the latter, particularly in the Asters, are very desirable.

A good seed catalogue will prove indispensable. Height of the flowers, times of blooming, whether they are suitable for such special purposes as edging, screening, cutting and fragrance, are all mentioned and are vital facts in laying out a satisfactory garden. In the vegetable line the catalogue continues this useful service by listing different varieties under the heading of early, late and medium so that a succession of vegetables is possible right through the season. With unusual sorts, special directions are given in regard to care and preparation for the table.

The following seeds may be sown early in the open: Spinach, beets, carrots, radish, lettuce, onions, parsnips and peas; seeds to be sown in the open after danger from frost is over: beans, corn, melons, cucumbers, potatoes, pumpkin and squash; seeds to be started in hot beds: cabbage, cauliflower, celery, tomatoes, peppers and egg plants. By spreading sowing of each early vegetable over a period of two to three weeks a larger harvesting season is obtained.

In selecting a list of annual flowers attention must be paid, of course, to time of blooming, color and height. But these are only elemental points. There are other and finer distinctions. Certain shades blend well together and often a whole bed will be selected with this blending in mind. Of course for this sort of thing, all the plants must bloom during the same period. Fragrance should be taken into account, as there are some spicy things like Evening Scented Stock, Nicotina, Mignonette, Sweet Sultan and Verbena, which while rather plain as plants, fill the whole garden with a delightful incense, especially in the evening. In shaded quarters, Tuberous rooted Begonias, Pansies and wild flowers will do well. In fact, they prefer this location to any other.

Urged To Store Food

If Not Needed England Can Share With Others

Grow Food, Store Food! If war comes here, the enemy airplanes will follow the lines of the rivers, pointing like arrow-heads to the heart of the great seaports. The bombers will smash the docks, blow down the bridges, and cripple our overseas food supply. If war comes elsewhere, the cost of that huge dislocation of trade in the markets of the world will drive up prices in this country to near famine level. And if this fear passes, as all good men and women pray and labor that it will, then if our land is fertile and our barns are filled we can give of our abundance, in humble thanksgiving, to those that sorely need it. Grow Food. Store Food!—London Daily Express.

Two Men Are Winners In Alaska Ice Break-Up

Ice started moving in the Tanana river at the exact moment E. Miller and J. Covich predicted.

The break-up began at 12:58 p.m., April 30, the time fixed by the two Juneau men, who entered the guessing contest in Alaska along with some 72,000 others. The winners are expected to split around $72,000.

The movement was determined by a wire run from a pole frozen in the ice to a bell and clock on shore. When the ice moved, the pole broke, pulling the wire, ringing the bell and stopping the clock.

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about "ASPIRIN."

He will tell you that before the discovery of "Aspirin" most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate "Aspirin" among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

FLEMING'S
FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATINGE

"Kilgo talked you into this trick. I know his brand," Fleming continued with bitterness. "He swung you against me before you'd been in the county five minutes. It gnaws at him because he lost to me the land I'm going to irrigate, playin' poker. And he needs range or his stock'll starve. He's plumb jealous. Can't you see it, Buzz?"

The visitor's facial muscles worked. "I can see Kilgo's a whole lot more friend o' mine than you are! Then yuh won't advise Helen to give me the responsibility of running the spread?"

"Yes. But by no means that power of attorney. You haven't earned it."

Buzz stood eyeing him, panting hard. Plain in his nasty scowl was the desire to spring upon Link. But he was unarmed—a condition of his parole—or certainly he would have whipped out a gun. His lack-lustre eyes blazed bitter, unyielding hate.

"I'm entitled to my share of the ranch, and if you don't help me get it, I'll find another way. I wish to heaven," the youth burst out suddenly, "yuh hadn't had me paroled! Roper would've got me a whole pardon so I could have my rights!"

"He lied to you. Kilgo never thought of it, and anyhow he hasn't got the reputation to have it put through. Look here, Buzz," Link added, forcing a conciliatory tone.

"Let's cut this out. Tell Helen I'm in favor of making you foreman or manager. Say, down in your heart, you believe in the dam. Don't you, now?"

The look he received was one of supreme contempt. "I'm not so blind but what I can see yuh skin'nin' us of our property. Like that eight hundred bucks yuh fixed to rob her—"

"Hold on!"
Buzz shrank back as if he feared a blow. "You know I had nothing to do with that!" Fleming roared, his pride stabbed to the quick. "Are you trying to make out I hired someone to pull that job? There isn't a scrap of evidence of it, Buzz Hamilton!"

Now the visitor was the more self-possessed of the two. His upper lip curled back in a sneer. "There's isn't, eh? Well, yuh can buffalo Sheriff Stephen but not Sis and me! That leather cuff Helen grabbed for a clue comes from Buster Townsend, your foreman. The guy you switched to bossin' the dam under McLendon. Now will yuh still claim yuh didn't hire Townsend to pull the holdup?"

Fleming leaned weakly against the corral rails, his incredulous stare fastened on Buzz. "Townsend? You mean Buster? Why, gosh, there must be some mistake. My own foreman wouldn't—"

"It's hard to crawl out of, eh, Fleming?"

The rancher jerked bolt upright. "Let me tell you, Buzz, if Townsend owns those cuffs, and he held up Helen for that eight hundred, he'll pay! I'll wring it out uv him good and plenty. And if he's guilty Buster will be in the jug before night, and I'll send him up for as long as the law allows!"

Hamilton stared down at his boot-tips, then flashed a skeptical look. "We're waitin' to see if yuh act as big as yuh talk. I found out yesterday that Townsend owns the cuffs. Another thing: when Mell kills yuh, how about our spread? It'll bankrupt us, I suppose. Or else yore heir, whoever that is, will own it. But damn you, Fleming," he cried, "I'll prevent that if I choke in the attempt!"

He started off but Link, after brief hesitation, spoke up. "Hold on, Buzz, let's not wind up in a quarrel. Listen: Helen and I signed an agreement. You don't have to worry about your spread—it's all down in black and white about our partnership."

"Agreement? What's it say?"

"If one of us should die before this job is finished, the other inherits his share of the dam and all the land irrigated. That's because we're set on putting this thing over, so the one that stays alive won't go broke. It lasts ten days after the dam is completed."

There was a long silence. Scrutinizing Hamilton's ashen face, Link was scarcely aware that Buzz moved closer, met his eyes for the first time, and bored him with an amazed, hateful look.

"If one of yuh dies—the other gets his property? Why is that?"

"Just to protect us both. It's ordinary business. You see, we figured—"

Like a bolt from the blue the paroled man shot long fingers for Link's holster. Out streaked the blue-black Colt, its muzzle whipping up as Buzz sprang away. "Yuh snake!" he screamed in the frenzied tones of a man temporarily deranged. "That's how yuh planned to grab our ranch—by that agreement. Do away with my sister, eh? Fleming, that's gonna give us yore ranch. Now!"

Link ducked. The weapon roared and a bullet whizzed over his head. He plunged forward his hundred and eighty pounds of work-hardened muscle. Again the forty-five vomited flame, and its slug carried the rancher's sombrero between rails and into the corral. A neat furrow plowed in Link's shock of hazel hair with the next roar of the sixgun. Heat stung his forehead.

Their bodies collided. They sank in a writhing, grunting heap. Buzz, more agile than his appearance suggested, squirmed to free his right arm. The gun swept up. Link's left fist lashed out and knocked it spinning away.

Quickly he clambered to his feet. Buzz followed, and uttering a weird, maddened cry, charged, his long fingers clawing, a wild look on his face, his eyes bulging with hate.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.
A more bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

There was nothing else to do, no other way out. Fleming crooked his sinewy arm, then snapped it forward. Cr-rack! Knuckles struck chin. The sound carried sharply through the quiet sunlight and Buzz's head flared back as his teeth clicked. His expression went suddenly blank. Rocking on his heels an instant, he collapsed in a limp heap on the ground.

An instant Link stared regretfully down at his victim. With a low growl he strode to the board trough 30 feet away, dipped a bucketful of water, and carried it back. He dumped a generous quantity over Hamilton's face and head, straightened, hurled the bucket aside, scooped up his gun, and holstered it. He was trembling. His brain seemed foggy as he walked off.

Reaching the ranch house, he looked back. Buzz was groping at a stirrup to mount. He rode away, swaying weakly. Link watched him during a mile's progress, then stiffened as he saw another rider appear and greet Buzz. Fleming muttered a dry curse.

It was Roper Kilgo.

CHAPTER XIV.

For twenty minutes Fleming paced restlessly up and down the low-roofed stoop of his ranch house, head lowered as he scowled at the floor, hands clenched behind his back or hooked in his cartridge belt. Matters were in a jumble, and there was need of action to straighten them out. Making up his mind, the Star Loop owner went to the corral. Better, he thought, to face Helen Hamilton now than to wait until Buzz could give a distorted story of what had transpired.

He had one foot in a stirrup when across the silent prairie there came a dull roar. For a few seconds it heightened, then subsided—and swelled again. Almost like a series of muffled explosions, it was not exactly definable for its faintness.

But one thing Link knew, that it came from the dam. An instant longer he listened intently, then sprang astride his mount and with spurs rowelling the beast's belly, thundered over the heat-shimmering prairie toward the foothills. On he raced as fast as his wiry mustang could carry him, until horse and rider were dodging amongst boulders and scrub pines at the foot of the incline to the irrigation workings.

Suddenly a shot rang out. A bullet whined through the air, and another gun barked, its slug snapping taut his grey shirt as it billowed behind him.

He checked his horse, and forty-five in hand, sent startled looks behind as he flung from the saddle. Ping-g! Two more bullets came as before from widely different sources, one on each side of him and behind, indicating that the gunners were in no danger from each other.

Realizing that the next shot might drop him, Fleming ran at a crouch for the nearest protection, a red boulder. He paused for a careful survey then described a cautious arc toward the foe he deemed closest. A slug whizzed overhead, and a sharp staccato crack from the fellow's accomplice flung's Link's sombrero, recovered from the corral where Buzz's bullet had sent it, sailing away with a second hole through its crown.

He clenched his trigger twice. One bit of lead glanced off a boulder. The other buried itself close behind a man just scrambling into a patch of bushes. Before Link could reach the spot, he heard the clomp-clomp of hoofs from two sources. The Star Loop owner dashed to the fringe of trees in time to see a pair of horsemen streak away, heads lowered, spurs scratching, as they pressed their mounts faster.

Already they were poor revolver targets. Staring at the figures, one blue-shirted, the other wearing a dark cloth vest, Link uttered a surprised whistle. When they were quite gone he strode grimly back to his own horse, caught the animal's reins, and mounted.

The lurking assassins were Buzz and Kilgo!

Their purpose in trying to kill him was evident—Buzz wanted the Star Loop to become part of the Triple H according to the agreement between Link and Helen. The treacherous Roper egged him on, planning to have his own time to work on Buzz with some wily scheme to wrest away both ranches, plus Sil-Creek Dam!

Arriving at the place to leave his horse, he dismounted and ran quickly up-trail, emerging at the headquarters to find no one about. But cries and exclamations caused him to hurry down the ladder to the muddy creek bed, thence upstream from the dam. On reaching the temporary cut-off he was greeted by a scene of utter confusion.

McLendon, the 30-year-old engineer, was on his knees beside a man lying prone. A dozen workmen huddled about another still form, and two or three, noticing Link, assumed resentful, accusing looks.

"Mac," the youth panted, "what the devil happened?"

"Landslide. Somebody started a boulder right down on the men. By God," snapped the other between grim-set teeth, "if I get the fellow, he'll burn!"

Buster Townsend hurried up, his face streaked with dust, his runty figure trembling with excitement. "He—he got away!" Buster came nearer. "We were workin' at the cut-off," he exclaimed, waving his thick hands, "and all of a sudden somebody yelled 'Look out!' We heard a roar, and holy smoke!—half the mountain comes down on us!"

"Where were you?"

"Huh? Why, right over there!" The man pointed, and strode a few steps to show his chief. A ragged mass of earth and debris and a gap above was mute explanation. Fleming needed no one to tell him that the landslide was mercenary work. Else why hadn't earth caved in away from as well as toward the pit, going also into the diverted stream? It had been arranged to come toward the dam, where posts and boards were built into a barricade against just such an accident, where at one spot pine tree trunks and boards had been ripped away.

Linked turned and called his engineer. The man rose from the victim and hurried forward. His face was pale and serious. He shook his head.

"Where were you, Mac?"

"There." He indicated a spot under the rising wall of concrete.

"You, Buster?"

"Why, I told yuh I was right here! Happened I'd started back to McLendon. The boys were workin' all around. I was goin' to ask Mac if I should plant dynamite, gettin' ready to blast the cut-off when he was ready to turn the river loose against the dam."

Fleming rolled a cigarette, eyeing him sharply. "You mean you were ready to do that? How about it?" he demanded of the engineer.

McLendon, a thin, serious-looking chap, shook his head. "Buster was too previous. We can't possibly be ready till tomorrow, and now with this mess to clear away, maybe not then. I found a place at the foot of the dike where we got to pour concrete reinforcement. The sluice gate stanchions have got to set more. And they've got to be tested after that. We're a long way from being done, Link, although I suppose to Townsend here, and others who don't know exactly how these things are, it looks almost ready to use. But there are still a lot of small jobs ahead of us. The men are dissatisfied and grumbling," he added in a lower tone. "They don't work very fast."

The rancher nodded and hurried back to the victims. One he recognized as Tug Orless, who had greeted him with threat of a strike when he and Helen and Buzz returned from Rawhide after Buzz's homecoming. Link knelt beside the man who was groaning in pain.

"What's the matter here?" he asked with attempted cheerfulness. A workman attending Orless gas-

"I never knew there was so much difference in mustard! I thought I was economizing when I got more of the cheap mustard for my money!

tured to his legs. "Smashed. Both feet got crushed, and he's shore bruised up, Boss."

Tug opened his eyes, racked with pain, and recognized Link.

"Damn yuh!" he snarled hatefully. "Gettin' men to work for yuh never knowin' if they'll get paid. Now what, eh? Laid up—maybe for life." He cursed violently. "Helluva lot yuh care! Yore dam—that's all yore thinkin' of!"

"Hold on, Tug. Have a smoke?" Fleming extended makin's to the victim. "Don't worry, Tug," he went on calmly. "You're goin' to get paid for every day you're laid up, just as if you were working. I'll stand the doctor bill."

Orless left off building his smoke. His eyes widened. "Yuh mean that, Fleming? Gosh, I got an old woman in Rawhide, an' there's going to be three of us in not so long. Yuh mean that?" he repeated earnestly.

"Of course I mean it, Tug. You're coming to the spread to rest up till you're in condition to go on home. Buster!" he called. "Did you send for a doctor?"

The foreman started. "Gosh, no! I—"

Link leaped to his feet. Something about his attitude aroused suspicion, and remembering what Buzz Hamilton had said about Buster's leather cuffs, Fleming bored his employee with keen disapproval. But he checked the speech that rose to his lips and strode to the other hurt man.

"Mac, send a rider for Doc Slater pronto. Have 'im tell Doc to rush to my ranch house. Get a wagon or somethin' to move these men. Start them right away. Hmm," he murmured, kneeling beside the second victim. "You're bandaged up some, eh, Jimmie?"

Missionary Doctor Finds Them Easy To Get On With

"Lepers are much easier to get on with than any other people I know." This statement was made by Dr. J. M. Howie, of the Church of Scotland Mission, Calabar, in addressing a meeting of the Mission to Lepers here. The Church of Scotland Mission, he said, cared for some 1,600 or 1,700 lepers in Nigeria, and in that country there were under treatment by the various missions some 5,000. But for every one that was being cared for, there were 20, 30, or maybe, 50 not being cared for. His Mission had not the money to care for any more. — Edinburgh Scotsman.
